Bullying

to treat in an overbearing or intimidating manner.

To make (one's way) aggressively.

*v.intr.*1. To behave like a bully.

2 To force one's way aggressively or by intimidation

Bullying hostile / exclusion, behavior of humiliation.

How is it manifested? A child is labeled, teased, mocked by colleagues calling him in a certain way (referring to physical appearance or medical / family issues).

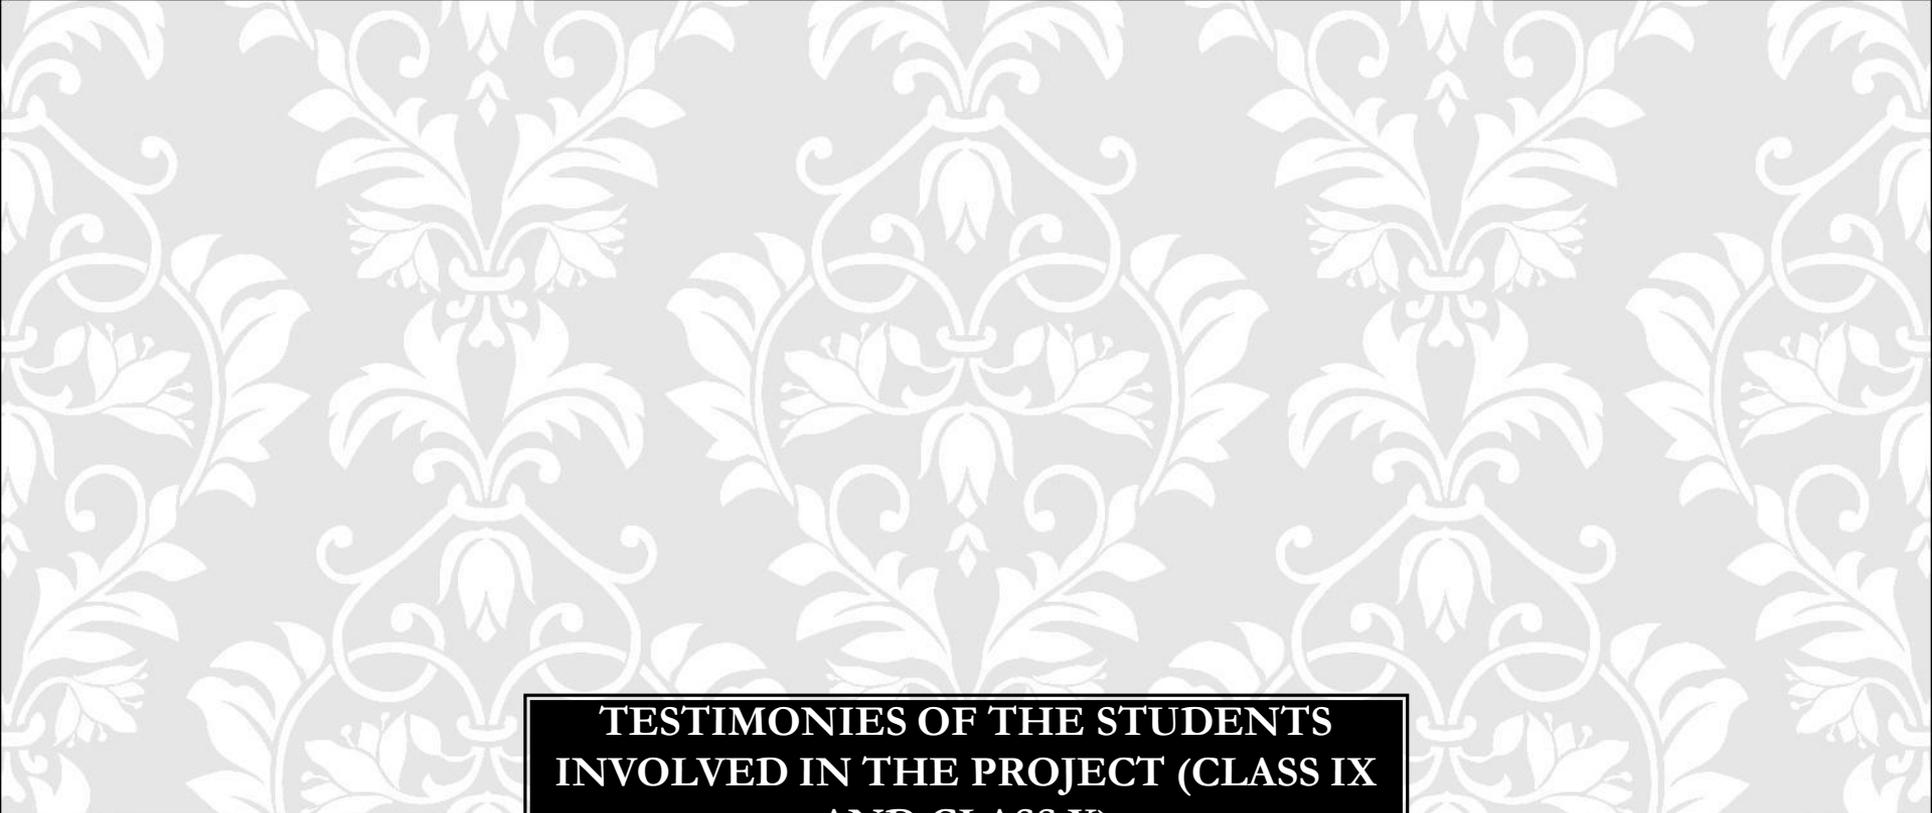

The purpose of the project was to make the students aware of the fact that there are bullying acts in schools.

ACTIVITATES:

1. A box of anonymous letters where students write their problems and / or stories about when they were physically or verbally assaulted;
Duration: March 26 - 30, 2018.
- 2 . Presentation of the effects of bullying and addressing or resolving issues raised in anonymous letters in collaboration with two school psychologists and a psychologist specializing in cyber-bullying. Opening period: April 16-27
The presentation took place in the festive hall, as planned below:
April 16 - 20: 9th and 10th grades
April 22 - 27: 11th and 12th grades
- 3 . Exhibition of students' works on "Stop Bullying!";
- 4 . Final report: 19 May 2018.

The objective of the project was to prevent, reduce and / or eliminate verbal and physical aggression.

The beneficiaries of this project are pupils of the National Bănăţean College who suffer from the bullying.

TESTIMONIES OF THE STUDENTS INVOLVED IN THE PROJECT (CLASS IX AND CLASS X)

"If I were to describe the experience I had through this project in two words, it would be: compassion and sadness, and if I were to develop, I say that what I heard was a cumulation of suffering and each of us should be open to help someone helpless. "

Sava Teodora

"It was satisfactory to know that we were able to make ourselves heard and to understand the phenomenon of bullying, as not many victims would say what they are. Of course, there are a few who have found and are still in touch with us, and we are grateful for their trust. I am proud of these people and of us because we have taken a stand against this phenomenon. "

Nica Andreea

Clasa a X-a SN2

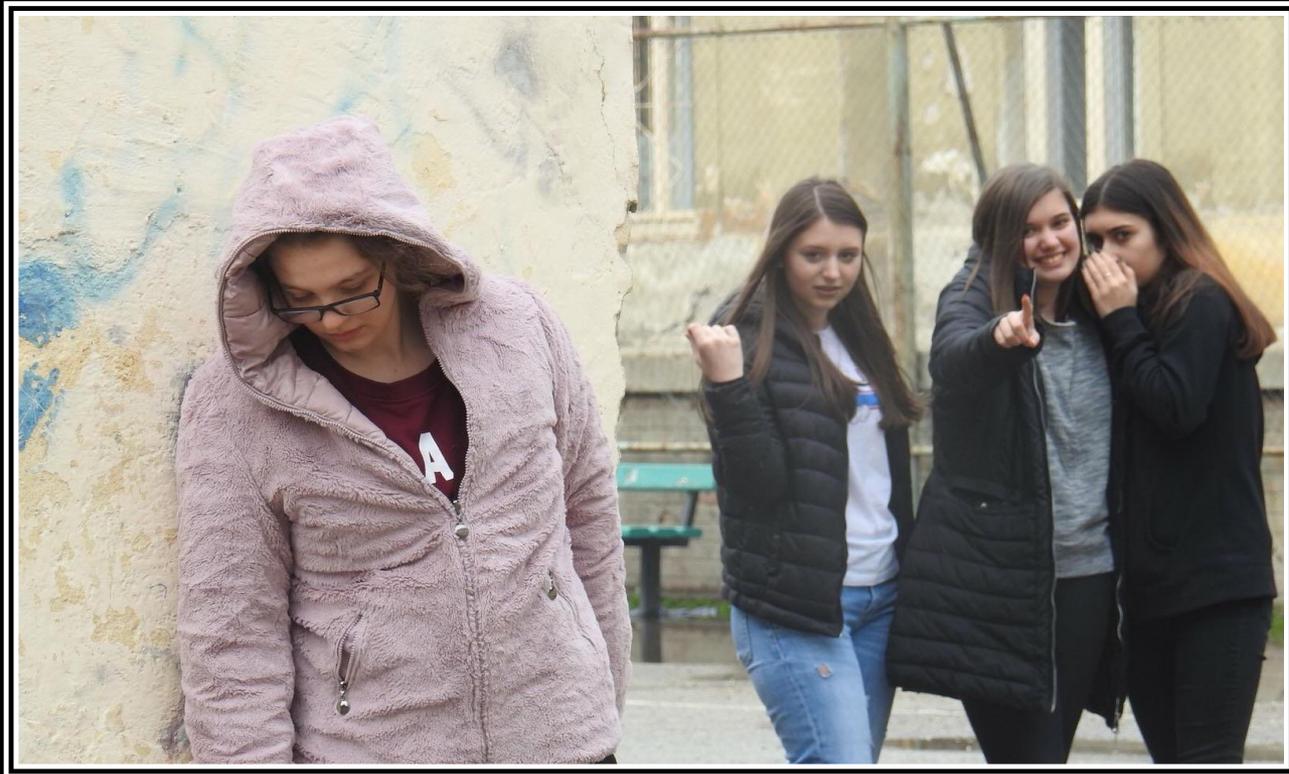

"This project managed to give a voice to those who felt they had lost it. After hearing their sad stories, I realized that to relieve somebody's sadness and pave the way for change, it may be enough to open your soul and just listen. "
